Sport-recreational fishing:

La Ciénaga de zapata has three areas for sport fishing, Las Salinas de Brito, El Río Hatiguanico and Laguna del Tesoro, all being protected areas with different management categories. a very specialized activity where modern motor boats are used that have facilities in their structure to carry out fishing from it, in the proper execution of the activity these boats are manually propelled by the guide to allow access in the as much quiet as possible with the client to the different areas where the fish are, sometimes very shallow. The areas where it is developed stand out for the good state of conservation of the natural resource and its scenic beauty.

In the area of Las Salinas de Brito the center of the activity is the macabí (Alvula sp), as an umbrella species and the shad (Megalops atlanticus), the Palometa (Trachinotus falcatus) and the Snook (Centropomus undecimalis) that give a complement of additional quality in the conformation of the product while in the Hatiguanico River and its tributaries there is a fishing potential that longitudinally spans more than 40 kilometers for tarpon as a fundamental species and bass, cubera and others as a complement; while in the Laguna del Tesoro the attractive species is the Cuban trout (black bass)

The internal accesses to the boarding points are by roads and dirt roads in the case of Salinas and the Hatiguanico River in good condition and that allow the client to enjoy a peculiar and beautiful nature. It is an activity of low degree of complexity from the physical point of view, although the client requires technical specialization and has 20 highly specialized guides and a carrying capacity of:

For Las Salinas up to 8 fishermen per day

For the Hatiguanico River up to 4 clients per day

For the Treasure Lagoon up to 8 fishermen per day.
