Trekking:

The product consists of tours of various trails with different natural values. The main values that the Biosphere Reserve has are given in the diversity, complexity and degree of conservation of its ecosystems, variety of landscapes with important scenic value, biological diversity, endemism and historical-cultural values.

The variety of landscapes with important scenic value is given by their uniqueness, having as tourist attraction: intermittent lagoons, swamp grasslands, petenes, mangroves and their succession, estuaries, lagoons and channels, the temporarily flooded forest, semi-deciduous forest, the xerophytic forest, the fluvial landscape of the Hatiguanico river and its tributaries, karst savannas, karst drainage system, flooded caves (cenotes), geological structure and calming, the marine-coastal zone, keys, the marshes, the coves, the Bay.

The areas that are visited are internationally recognized for being one of the best places for birdwatching in the entire Caribbean, for which several trails planned for this modality were designed:

- Las Salinas Trail
- Enigma of the Rocks Trail
- San Lázaro-Guamutales Trail
- Arroyones Trail
- Bermejas Trail

The internal accesses to the starting points of the trails are in good condition and transportation to them is done by the customer. There is a service of specialized local guides of great experience and with a language level. The load capacity is 2 groups in the morning and 1 group in the afternoon for all areas, groups must have a maximum of 15 pax. The degree of difficulty is medium, given that the trails are flat with periods of temporary flooding, and you should wear comfortable clothes, light shoes, sunscreen and mosquito repellent.
