Girón Beach Museum

The installation is a memorial dedicated to the battle waged by the Cuban people against the mercenary troops of Cuban origin, supported by American naval forces, that invaded the country from April 17 to 19, 1961.

It exhibits the material evidence that testifies to the events that occurred in Playa Girón, the place where the first great defeat of Yankee imperialism in Latin America took place.

Its functions of rescue, conservation, hoarding, temporary exposure and dissemination are also destined for the history of the town. Among the most important activities that are carried out are: the sample of the month, talks, conversations, conferences, meetings with history, treatment of the most important ephemeris of each month, teaching of courses for adults and circles of interest.
