Boca de Guamá Tourist Complex

The main attraction of this place, a link between Jagüey Grande and Playa Larga, is the excursion by boat through the channels between the mangroves and through the Laguna del Tesoro to the recreation of a Taíno town where about 100,000 trekkers arrive each year.

A series of 25 sculptures of Taino Indians on a natural scale amid hunting, fishing and other tasks show us the indigenous way of life on a route through the history of the place, made by Rita Longa.

It is curious to highlight the set consisting of a series of cabins that remain connected by platforms and that lead to the tourist center where the restaurants are located.

The crocodile farm is another of the most interesting attractions of the visit since you can see more than four thousand specimens of all ages and in groups by age and size for a better quality of life.
